Geesch It Stays Doggone Cold and Wet !!!

I dont think it made it passed 46°F. Yesterday or Monday ...??? Today Either.... ???

 So New Name I stand Corrected

That Mention I made of the Holiday Inn - West Bay Beach ...for the Thursday--February 27th "'Reisters Winter Meeting & Expo"'up at Traverse City...

... Thats actually now called the "'West Bay Beach Resort"' ...a Delamar Group Property

 A Review... What can you expect at the "'Winter Meetings"' ...???
...and whats the Expo part mean...???

.....We are in front of you apprx 4 Hours with several Industry-Associates doing their Informational Power-Point-Presentations.... New Product Training type Talks... There is a Continental Breakfast Expo: There are a lot of "Breaks" for you to visit with our Vendors... There's Apprx 20-25 of our Fave Vendors have Booths set up where we want you to Visit with them on the multiple timely Breaks ... And there is always a wonderful Lunch.... Usually done by Lunch time or very shortly after.... and Lots & Lots of Prizes I mean Lots.... Way more than you think We start earlyusually done & out by 1 -1 .30p

 Q & A... For Sure Yes..... Thnx for the FeedBack ... 4 out of 6 of those Pesticides You mentioned will go into that 'Post-Harvest-Foliar' Tank-Mix just fine.

Also... Remember ...a Bunch of these older Very-Low-Cost-Pesticides are also labeled as 'Soil-Insecticides' ... and some of the other Products on your shelf can go into that "Weed-Control-Strip" with those leftover Herbicides. Remember all this Rain is gonna make Weed-Control more of an Issue... Lots of Rain depletes your residual Herbicides in your top-6-8-Inch-Soil. Touching up your WeedControl this Fall-Post-Harvest will ease the pressure in Spring-20 when we have *Brush *ScabControl *Mud type interference to contend with.

And if an old Product you find still taking up shelf-space is one you can't remember, and that I have never heard of, it's usually safe to do in a Weed-Sprayer-Tank...
